WITH A LITTLE WEIGHT TO THEM.
THEY GIVE MY DRINK MORE MEANING.

the last desperate act of

I hurtle myself against the subway door because the pressure of trying to get out of Williamsburg goddamnit is too much for me and the whole train rattles and the water comes bursting in and everyone is taking out their phones because they want to take selfies about it and then maybe they will finally be famous online and everyone will love them or whatever and I'm finding the last blank page in a notebook, past doodles of cats, past your address, past shit attempts at irony, and I'm clicking my pen over and over as the water makes it high enough that I have to hang from the handrails like one of those subway performers and there is not even enough time to be surprised, I write a letter to you, tie it to a fish using a torn out cowlick and think "west" and I drown, the note reads

you make me want to vomit. just so you will take care of me

If I start dating someone in November, do I have to get them a Christmas present? When is the cut off? I'm on a budget.
